“Projecting Australia on the World Stage”

Professor the Hon Gareth Evans
AC QC FASSA FIQA
Chancellor, Australian National University

What influence can Australia wield in the world, and to what ends? What are our national interests, and what is our capacity to advance and protect them? What difference has it made in the past, and will it in the years immediately ahead, which party governs? Can – and should – an ally of the United States have a genuinely independent foreign policy? How should we exercise our new responsibilities as a member of the United Nations Security Council?

Gareth Evans, one of the two longest-serving Cabinet Ministers in Australian Labor Party history, addresses these crucial issues as an international policymaker, analyst and advocate with decades of high-level experience.

Thursday, 29 August 2013
6.30pm – 7.30pm
Theatre A
Elisabeth Murdoch Building
The University of Melbourne
PARKVILLE VIC 3010

Admission is free.
Bookings are required.
Seating is limited.

To register visit: http://alumni.online.unimelb.edu.au/projectingaustralia

For further information please contact Emma Shortis emma.shortis@unimelb.edu.au.

‘Australia in the World’ is a lecture and seminar series that presents international and transnational perspectives on the past. The series highlights the interconnectedness of past worlds and future challenges with speakers from around the country and across the globe.

Supported by the School of Historical and Philosophical Studies and the School of Social and Political Sciences.